WELCOME

1 Weekend, 1 Yorkshire Dales Market Town, 70+ Artistic Adventures

Technology is changing the world. But, is it changing art? Experience something new, something fresh, something digital.

We're curious to see how technology can enhance story. This curiosity ignites the 7th Settle Stories Festival.

Log in and play Wi-Fi Wars, a record-breaking live comedy game show. Put on your headphones and be the first to discover Burning House - our festival commission. Become a central character at the heart of the story with And the Birds Fell From the Sky, an immersive video goggle performance.

As ever we've got our old favourites with outstanding international artists and our staple ingredient - traditional storytelling. Our family events are bound to make a splash. We've transported a 50 ft inflatable whale to the Yorkshire Dales. Will you dare step inside its belly?

We'll meet you there.

6-7pm

A young Polish boy is separated from his father at the outbreak of war. He spends 20 years searching for him. When reunited, things are not what they seem.

Based on a true story, this is a tale of love, grief and reunion. Using binaural sound, you will be transported across the world in a live and digital experience that will leave you pausing for thought.

Exploring identity and issues surrounding home. A story of possession and belonging taking apart what it means to belong somewhere and putting it back together somewhere else.

This piece fuses sonic art, poetry and visual manipulation to create a visceral experience.

ONE MAN AND A MIXER

Our story began 50 years ago when one man bought a concrete mixer and set out on a mission to provide quality affordable building services to the local community. His work was good, his prices were reasonable and he always had an idea - or three - about how to make a project better. His name was David Sutcliffe.

Today Sutcliffe Construction's services are delivered by teams of professionals working on projects worth up to £6 million across the county and nationwide. But our story hasn't changed.

We're still a family-owned business that uses our combined experience and expertise to make the best use of a client's space, time and budget. We call it Building Smart.

To find out more, call James Sutcliffe on 01729 850817
